European Crisis Diminishes After Franco Submits to Great Britain

How Britain Shows Force of Warning to Franco

THREATS of General Franco, leader of the Spanish Fascists, to blockade Loyalist ports and prevent ships of any nations to trade with them has caused Great Britain to send a fleet of submarines and a destroyer flotilla to stand guard outside Spanish territorial waters to prevent interference with British shipping. The depot ship Cyclops accompanied the submarines.

ROPER DECLARES NATION IN NEED OF ANOTHER NRA

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (UP)—Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper declared today for a return to "the basic standards of the National Industrial Recovery act" should voluntary co-operation of business, labor and the federal government fail.

The secretary said:

"It would be ideal if the objectives sought in this act could be brought about by business, industry labor and the consumer working among themselves. I hope that this may prove possible."

"However, if this approach is unsuccessful, the interest of all requires that the federal government and the congress take action in cooperation with all elements interested to provide for the basic objectives of the National Industrial Recovery act."

In his first interview since the election the 70-year-old cabinet member displayed a forcefulness that belied his slight stature and usual mild manner.

Seated in his luxurious suite in the commerce department building—the largest office building in the world—Roper laid down an emphatic threat that federal legislation must assure cooperation if persuasion fails.

BASIL ZAHAROFF, MAN OF MYSTERY, DIES IN MONACO

MONTE CARLO, Monaco, Nov. 27 (UP)—Sir Basil Zaharoff, maker of kings and of wars, died today.

The aged seller of munitions to any government which had the price amassed a fabulous fortune in his long career, during which he traced a finger of blood across the map of Europe.

Sir Basil died suddenly of a heart attack at the Hotel Paris, where he has been in seclusion. He awakened at his regular hour of 8 a. m. after a peaceful night. When his valet arrived at 9 a. m. with his breakfast, he found Zaharoff dead.

His step-daughter, the Princess of Bourbon, who has been staying with him, was called to the death bed and took charge of funeral arrangements.

Zaharoff was believed to have been 86 years old, although the exact circumstances of his birth remained obscure, as did many of the events and activities of his life. He was familiarly known as "the mystery man of Europe."

Death finally overcame him here where he spent the last few years of his life in inactivity forced by his feeble condition.

FOREIGN SHIPS WIN PROTECTION

New Dispute Possible Over Efforts To Restrict Use Of Planes

MOSCOW, Nov. 27 (UP)—"We warn Japan frankly that if there is an attack we will deliver a crushing blow and will not give up an inch of territory," G. M. Krutov, president of the executive committee of the far Eastern area, said today in a speech before the All Union Congress of Soviets.

LONDON, Nov. 27 (UP)—An international crisis over a Spanish nationalist threat was diminished today on receipt of advices that Gen. Francisco Franco, nationalist dictator, had designated a neutral zone for foreign ships as Great Britain demanded.

But it was expected that before the day was over there would be fresh trouble.

A sub-committee meeting on the neutrality pact in the civil war was called and Germany was expected to reject unqualifiedly a plan to supervise European airports to prevent dispatch of airplanes to the nationalists and loyalists.

Cover All Nations

The sub-committee considered a "secret" draft agreement which delegates were asked to keep locked up at all times. The draft provides supervision of aircraft leaving countries which possess large air craft manufacturing industries or large numbers of civil air craft of foreign manufacture. Supervision would be extended to all countries within effective flying range—1,500 miles—of Spain. There would be supervision also at points just outside the Spanish frontier, and at points in Spain. It was suggested also that governments might restrict licensing of planes to fly to Spain, limit the amount of gasoline which airplanes might carry, and penalize pilots or owners of planes which reached Spain.

A meeting of the full non-intervention committee was called for next Wednesday to discuss the proposal.

Word Through Chilton

The foreign office received today through Sir Henry Chilton, ambassador to Spain now on the French frontier, an official communication from Gen. Francisco Franco, nationalist dictator, defining a neutral zone at Barcelona. It confirmed an earlier message which the admiralty received from nationalist authorities in the Balearic islands. The zone lies approximately along an east-to-west line three-fourths of a mile south of Barcelona breakwater and light house.

CRUISER READY TO REMOVE 60 TO SAFE SHORE

VALENCIA, Nov. 27 (UP)—The United States cruiser Raleigh got up steam today to take to France and home 60-odd American refugees from shattered Madrid, here after a Thanksgiving day spent on the rain swept road to the Mediterranean.

Rear Admiral Arthur P. Fairfield, in command, hoped to embark the last of them in time to leave for Marseilles, early this afternoon.

It was expected that he would halt at Barcelona to embark any Americans who wanted to leave that danger point, soon to be bombarded by the Nationalists.

Under Charge D'Affaires Eric C. Wendelin, the American embassy and consulate general staff set up quarters here. Leaving behind them in Madrid 109 United States citizens, including 20 native Americans.

WINTER GRASPS MIDDLE STATES AS SNOW FALLS

Mercury Drops To 16-Degree Mark During Night After Chilly Holiday

WARM AIR ON WAY?

Near-Blizzard Slows Traffic In Northern Ohio

Winter has Circleville and Pickaway county firmly in its grasp Friday after a chilly Thanksgiving Day in which the temperature failed to climb above the freezing mark.

Many housewives found their milk frozen Friday morning as the mercury skidded to 16 degrees, believed the coldest of the early winter.

A blanket of comparatively warm air was reported moving out of the northwest toward the Atlantic, touching the middlewest and expected to reach the east Saturday.

Northern Traffic Hit

Iowa and Ohio felt the most severe of the Thanksgiving day weather. Northern Ohio had a near-blizzard which slowed traffic to a crawl.

St. Louis had its first snowfall of the season, and Minneapolis residents shoveled and swept two inches of snow from their sidewalks. Temperatures ranged as low as six degrees above zero in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., and were below freezing in many eastern cities.

Weather forecasters predicted: Not so cold today, but snow tomorrow in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Missouri, Iowa, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Minnesota and Kansas; continued cold today, with rising temperatures followed by snow tomorrow in Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey. West Virginia and Kentucky may get their snow today and have a "fair and warmer" week-end.

A rooming house fire, hunting and automobile accidents combined to take the toll.

Three persons burned to death in an early morning fire at Dayton. The victims were Laura Ellen Waltz, 58; her daughter, Virginia, 16, and Connie McDevitt, 21, Indianapolis. Charles Small, 29, Detroit, was burned seriously.

Stop Made On Way To Peace Parley In Buenos Aires

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Nov. 27 (UP)—President Roosevelt stepped onto South American soil today to the thunderous cheers of thousands of Brazilians.

President Getulio Vargas of Brazil headed the official welcoming group. He and the committee went on board the Indianapolis at 7:33 a. m. EST.

A special gangplank was lowered, adjoining a special ramp on the pier, and President Roosevelt stepped ashore. U. S. secret service operatives had adjusted the gangplank and ramp and watched him and the dense throng carefully as he walked smiling and waving to his motor car.

Gobs Line Decks

American gobs lined the decks of the cruiser and the U. S. S. Chester, conveying him on his peace voyage to Buenos Aires and the inter-American conference.

Airplanes flew overhead, roaring low in welcome to the smiling president. Gaily beflagged tugs escorted the Indianapolis to her dock as she steamed slowly in gray grandeur to pause for a day in the Brazilian capital. The Chester followed several hundred yards behind her.

The president had traditional "Roosevelt luck" on arrival, for rain which had fallen in tropical torrents ceased momentarily as the (Continued on Page Eight)

Opposition Growing Against King's Friend, Reports In London Say

THREATS DISCOUNTED

Household Denies Special Guard Given American

LONDON, Nov. 27.—(UP)—A formidable opposition to the friendship between King Edward and Mrs. Wallis Simpson was growing fast today, and it coincided with fresh reports that the friend was likely to be a more formal one in the near future.

There were hints that the leading conservative newspapers—whose great influence in the country is unquestioned—would soon begin a campaign of forceful editorializing which, while not perhaps even mentioning the friendship, would leave no doubt that the elements upon whom monarchies depend for support, expect the king to adhere closely to constitution and tradition.

Opposed By Baldwin

It is now no longer news that Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin and other government leaders oppose the friend openly. But there has been a new development—it is hinted that if the king opposes them they will make clear to him their power to control legislation which he favors.

Mrs. Simpson's household, the police station for the precinct in which she lives and Scotland Yard professed no knowledge today of reports that she has received threatening letters and that a special guard had been assigned her.

Look out for those half-sick days, when you feel listless, headachy, out-of-sorts. Your trouble may be constipation. The real cause of common constipation is too little "bulk" in meals. Your system misses its regular exercise.

Get this needed "bulk" in a delicious cereal: Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Within the body, its "bulk" absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, gently sponges out the system.

Why keep on feeling bad when you can feel good? Millions of people use ALL-BRAN. Tests prove it's safe and effective. ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Try it a week. If not satisfactory, your money will be refunded by the Kellogg Company.

Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. Serve as a cereal, with milk or cream, or cook into recipes. Remember, ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and iron.

Astute Diplomat

WASHINGTON observers are making much of the diplomacy of Oswaldo Aranha, above, ambassador to Brazil, for it was Aranha who induced President Roosevelt to equalize his South American visit to Buenos Aires with one to Rio de Janeiro. Brazilians, it is said, were somewhat put out when Buenos Aires, capital of Argentina, was chosen as the scene of the Inter-American peace conference. Their chagrin became more intense when it was heard that President Roosevelt would attend the conference—and might not stop at Rio de Janeiro, where a brilliant reception is planned. Aranha is an ex-cowboy, the man who led the revolution putting President Vargas of Brazil into power.

PRESIDENT'S KIN NEW PUBLISHER OF HEARST PAPER

SEATTLE, Nov. 27.—(UP)—Appointment of John Boettiger, son-in-law of President Roosevelt, as publisher of the Post-Intelligencer, owned by William Randolph Hearst, was viewed by members of the newspaper guild today as indicative of a new deal for editorial employees. The guild settled its strike with the paper Wednesday.

"We anticipate a new deal all around with Boettiger at the reins," a spokesman for the guild said. He refused additional comment.

There was considerable speculation about the editorial policy that Boettiger would establish but no official comment. The Hearst newspapers bitterly opposed President Roosevelt in the recent election, but in announcing the appointment of the president's kin Hearst said Boettiger would have complete editorial freedom.

CAPITAL SEES TWO WARS SOON AGAINST SOVIET

Washington Believes Pact Of Japan And Germany Aimed At Stalin

NATION'S MOVES WATCHED

"Limited Objective" Basis For Attack

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (UP)—The Japanese-German military alliance is aimed at the overthrow of the Stalin regime in Soviet Russia as well as the conquest of considerable Soviet territory in Western Europe and eastern Siberia, diplomatic observers here said today.

Reviewing the international situation in Europe, and the warlike moves by Italy, Germany and Japan during recent months, veteran observers see the Japanese-German alliance as an added milepost in Germany's steady military march toward the Soviet borders. They believe that war between Germany and Soviet Russia is likely next spring, followed closely by war between Japan and the Soviets.

May Reverse Ordered

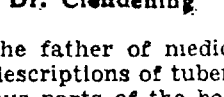

The chronological order may be reversed with the clash between Japan and the Soviets resulting directly from some Manchukuo-Siberian border clash. In that case Germany would be expected to move promptly against Russia's southwestern border.

In the case of both Germany and Japan, military strategists believe, the projected campaign against Soviet Russia would be based on what is known technically as a "limited objective." Japan it is expected, would attempt to cut off the maritime provinces, which form a shape somewhat like a hammer head, by throwing a line of troops across the narrow "handle" from the Amur river, somewhere near Blagovestchensk, to the sea of Okosk.

DIET AND HEALTH

Tracing History of Knowledge of Tuberculosis

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
TUBERCULOSIS is a very old disease. Tuberculosis of the spine has been found in the skeletons of Egyptian mummies; one, the Priest Amen, dating from the XXI Dynasty, 1090 B. C. Probably the oldest case of tuberculosis on earth was found in the spine of a Neolithic skeleton discovered near Heidelberg, Germany, approximately 25,000 years old.

Dr. Clendening

Hippocrates, the father of medicine, has many descriptions of tuberculosis in various parts of the body (400 B. C.). How prevalent it was then, we do not know. But we do know that ever since it became a reportable disease and boards of health have kept statistical records, it has been on the decline.

It is probable that the incidence of tuberculosis did not change until about the year 1825, and since then it has been sharply going down. In 1900, from which time our records are complete, there were 200 deaths per 100,000 population. About 1921 Dr. Louis L. Dublin published a paper in which he predicted that by 1930 the mortality would be close to 50 per 100,000. As a matter of fact, this was a very accurate guess, because it is approximately 54 per 100,000 nowadays.

This decline in so widespread a disease was not brought about by the discovery of any single method of treatment or any single important method of prevention. Our ability to control a disease depends on full knowledge: in tuberculosis this knowledge has been completed bit by bit.

No Advance for 2,000 Years
After the original description by Hippocrates, no real advance in the study of tuberculosis was made for over 2,000 years. In England a

Household Denies Special Guard Given American

LONDON, Nov. 27 — (UP) — A formidable opposition to the friendship between King Edward and Mrs. Wallis Simpson was growing fast today, and it coincided with fresh reports that the friend was likely to be a more formal one in the near future.

There were hints that the leading conservative newspapers — whose great influence in the country is unquestioned — would soon begin a campaign of forceful editorializing which, while not perhaps even mentioning the friendship, would leave no doubt that the elements upon whom monarchies depend for support, expect the king to adhere closely to constitution and tradition.

Opposed By Baldwin
It is now no longer news that Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin and other government leaders oppose the friend openly. But there has been a new development — it is hinted that if the king opposes them they will make clear to him their power to control legislation which he favors.

Mrs. Simpson's household, the police station for the precinct in which she lives and Scotland Yard professed no knowledge today of reports that she has received threatening letters and that a special guard has been assigned her.

CARD OF THANKS
We gratefully thank our neighbors and friends for their kindness and sympathy during the illness and after the death of our husband and son. To Rev. W. D. Cherry for his consoling words and Crites and Van Cleve for their efficient services, to them we are also grateful.

Mrs. Frank Chambers, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Chambers and family.

YES, THIS FOOD ENDS YOUR CONSTIPATION

Look out for those half-sick days, when you feel listless, headachy, out-of-sorts. Your trouble may be constipation. The real cause of common constipation is too little "bulk" in meals. Your system misses its regular exercise.

Get this needed "bulk" in a delicious cereal: Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Within the body, its "bulk" absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, gently sponges out the system.

Why keep on feeling bad when you can feel good? Millions of people use ALL-BRAN. Tests prove it's safe and effective. ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Try it a week. If not satisfactory, your money will be refunded by the Kellogg Company.

Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. Serve as a cereal, with milk or cream, or cook into recipes. Remember, ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and iron.

Certainly you'd rather eat a food than take pills and drugs. Buy ALL-BRAN at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Astute Diplomat

WASHINGTON observers are making much of the diplomacy of Oswaldo Aranha, above, ambassador to Brazil, for it was Aranha who induced President Roosevelt to equalize his South American visit to Buenos Aires with one to Rio De Janeiro. Brazilians, it is said, were somewhat put out when Buenos Aires, capital of Argentina, was chosen as the scene of the Inter-American peace conference. Their chagrin became more intense when it was heard that President Roosevelt would attend the conference — and might not stop at Rio De Janeiro. Ambassador Aranha, however, got busy — and now the president will stop at Rio De Janeiro, where a brilliant reception is planned. Aranha is an ex-cowboy, the man who led the revolution putting President Vargas of Brazil into power.

PRESIDENT'S KIN NEW PUBLISHER OF HEARST PAPER

SEATTLE, Nov. 27 — (UP) — Appointment of John Boettiger, son-in-law of President Roosevelt, as publisher of the Post-Intelligencer, owned by William Randolph Hearst, was viewed by members of the newspaper guild today as indicative of a new deal for editorial employees. The guild settled its strike with the paper Wednesday.

"We anticipate a new deal all around with Boettiger at the reins," a spokesman for the guild said. He refused additional comment.

There was considerable speculation about the editorial policy that Boettiger would establish but no official comment. The Hearst newspapers bitterly opposed President Roosevelt in the recent election, but in announcing the appointment of the president's kin Hearst said Boettiger would have complete editorial freedom.

CAPITAL SEES TWO WARS SOON AGAINST SOVIET

Washington Believes Pact Of Japan And Germany Aimed At Stalin

NATION'S MOVES WATCHED

"Limited Objective" Basis For Attack

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (UP) — The Japanese-German military alliance is aimed at the overthrow of the Stalin regime in Soviet Russia as well as the conquest of considerable Soviet territory in Western Europe and eastern Siberia, diplomatic observers here said today.

Reviewing the international situation in Europe, and the warlike moves by Italy, Germany and Japan during recent months, veteran observers see the Japanese-German alliance as an added milepost in Germany's steady military march toward the Soviet borders. They believe that war between Germany and Soviet Russia is likely next spring, followed closely by war between Japan and the Soviets.

May Reverse Order

The chronological order may be reversed with the clash between Japan and the Soviets resulting directly from some Manchukuo-Siberian border clash. In that case Germany would be expected to move promptly against Russia's southwestern border.

In the case of both Germany and Japan, military strategists believe, the projected campaign against Soviet Russia would be based on what is known technically as a "limited objective." Japan it is expected, would attempt to cut off the maritime provinces, which form a shape somewhat like a hammer head, by throwing a line of troops across the narrow "handle" from the Amur river, somewhere near Blagovestchensk, to the sea of Okosk.

Tracing History of Knowledge of Tuberculosis

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
TUBERCULOSIS is a very old disease. Tuberculosis of the spine has been found in the skeletons of Egyptian mummies; one, the Priest Amen, dating from the XXI Dynasty, 1090 B. C. Probably the oldest case of tuberculosis on earth was found in the spine of a Neolithic skeleton discovered near Heidelberg, Germany, approximately 25,000 years old.

Dr. Clendening

Hippocrates, the father of medicine, has many descriptions of tuberculosis in various parts of the body (400 B. C.). How prevalent it was then, we do not know. But we do know that ever since it became a reportable disease and boards of health have kept statistical records, it has been on the decline.

It is probable that the incidence of tuberculosis did not change until about the year 1825, and since then it has been sharply going down. In 1900, from which time our records are complete, there were 200 deaths per 100,000 population. About 1921 Dr. Louis L. Dublin published a paper in which he predicted that by 1930 the mortality would be close to 50 per 100,000. As a matter of fact, this was a very accurate guess, because it is approximately 54 per 100,000 nowadays.

This decline in so widespread a disease was not brought about by the discovery of any single method of treatment or any single important method of prevention. Our ability to control a disease depends on full knowledge: in tuberculosis this knowledge has been completed bit by bit.

No Advance for 2,000 Years
After the original description by Hippocrates, no real advance in the study of tuberculosis was made for over 2,000 years. In England a compendium by Richard Morton called "Phthisiologia", published in 1708, summarized the knowledge of his day. His treatment was simple and sensible, but he had no means of examining the patient's chest, no knowledge that the disease was spread by a germ.

Since then the major events in the history of tuberculosis have been as follows:

1761: The introduction of percussion in diseases of the chest by Auenbrugger.

1816: Bayle worked out the natural history of the disease. He showed, for instance, that hemorrhages from the lungs are the result and not the cause of tuberculosis, as was previously believed.

1819: Laennec invented the stethoscope to listen to the lungs. This enables physicians to tell which patients have the disease early.

In 1870 Villemin preached the doctrine of the contagiousness of tuberculosis. He told his students at the Val de Grace hospital that "the phthisical soldier is to his messmate what the glandered horse is to its yokel." "In 1870 Villemin preached the doctrine of the contagiousness of tuberculosis. He told his students at the Val de Grace hospital that "the phthisical soldier is to his messmate what the glandered horse is to its yokel."

1840: George Bodington recommended putting consumptives outdoors in the open air. This horrified contemporary opinion: before that consumptives were kept in an airtight room.

1850: The first successful sanatorium, that of Brehmer, was established. In 1882, the first American sanatorium was established at Saranac lake, by Edward L. Trudeau. These men believed that tuberculosis could be cured. It was the first hopeful note.

1882: Koch found the germ which is the cause of tuberculosis. 1895: Roentgen discovered the X-ray.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Government Enters Shipping Business To Relieve Alaskan Residents

UNIONS AGREE TO MOVE

Demands of Maritime Group Answered In New Step

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 27. — (UP) — The federal government entered the commercial shipping business today in order to provide food for Alaska and in doing so acceded to all demands of the maritime unions whose strike has paralyzed west coast shipping. The unions jubilantly proclaimed the concessions as that amount to recognition of their demands as "just and reasonable."

Food and other necessary staples will be rushed to Alaskan towns on an emergency basis. Col. Otto Ohlson, manager of the government-owned Alaskan railroad and union leaders signed the agreements under which three ships will be loaded, manned and sailed. One vessel will sail from here and two from Seattle within a week. Two other ships also may be chartered.

With the Alaskan problem settled government officials now are expected to turn their attention to the Hawaiian islands where supplies from the mainland have been curtailed seriously.

The government granted the unions preferential hiring of all personnel, increased wages and cash overtime for officers, seamen and longshoremen, the joint strike committee of the seven unions announced. These are the points on which ship owners have refused to agree and are the cause of the month-old strike.

Maybe we don't grow wiser with age. We feel wise, of course, but we felt that way at 18.

GUARANTEED RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Common constipation is usually due to meals low in "bulk." Pills and drugs give only temporary relief. The sensible thing to do is to put "bulk" back into your meals.

Millions of people get this needed "bulk" in a delicious cereal: Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Its "bulk" is much like that in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, gently cleanses the system.

Some years ago, an investigation was made among thousands of ALL-BRAN users. 98 per cent found it satisfactory. Only 2 per cent had the type of constipation that would not respond to ALL-BRAN.

ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Try it a week. If not satisfactory, your money will be refunded by the Kellogg Company.

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily, either as cereal or in cooked dishes. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

BILLY PAPKE SHOOT FORMER WIFE, SUICIDES

NEWPORT, Calif., Nov. 27. — (UP) — The record on Billy Papke, one-time middleweight champion of the world and yesterday a greeter in a saloon, was closed today. Papke, 50, pudgy and lonely, finished it last night when he killed his divorced wife and took his own life.

Papke killed Edna Papke, 46, with a gun he purchased last week. Employees at the Jim Flynn saloon—where a sign in the window read "Come in and meet Billy Papke"—said the old fighter had been morose and moody for weeks. Occasionally he muttered aloud "I wish I knew what to do."

Yesterday afternoon Ben Rosenberg, owner of the saloon, told Papke he was going home for a turkey dinner.

"I guess I'll go, too," Papke replied, and walked out. A short time later he walked into the beach home of Mrs. Papke. Mrs. Helen Cabanne, a neighbor, was there.

"He walked in with a gun in his hand," Mrs. Cabanne said. "He didn't say a thing and neither did Mrs. Papke. As I ran out I saw her backing away and him following her slowly. As I ran to call police I heard five shots."

Mrs. Papke was hit by two of the bullets. Papke then shot himself three times. Mrs. Cabanne said Papke several times threatened to kill Mrs. Papke, who divorced him last spring.

BRUNGS TRIAL NEXT CASE ON COURT PROGRAM

Grand jurors will be called in about the middle of December to consider cases before the Christmas holiday season, Judge Joseph Adkins said Friday. So far the Judge has set no exact date for the session. Only four cases are now on file with the clerk of court.

The next jury case is Dec. 2, when Clarence Brungs, city, goes on trial on charges of burglary and larceny in connection with the theft of chickens from the H. E. Riggan poultry house and groceries from George Limebaugh, Aug. 28. The Riggan case will be tried first.

STRANGE PLANE WITHOUT TAIL TO BE TESTED

MINNEAPOLIS (UP) — A tail-less airplane is being perfected by Prof. John D. Akermann, head of the department of aeronautical engineering at the University of Minnesota.

Akermann's plane, on which he has been working for the past two years, resembles the ordinary plane in no way. The fuselage ends just about where the pilot sits. The wings are three times as wide as the body is long and have flap-like rudders on the tips.

It is the plan of Akermann to find if a tail-less craft can depend for its control and stability during a flight solely on ailerons and in the wings.

The plane weighs only pounds. The wing span is 22 feet and the body length 7½ feet. Jacobs 55 horsepower motor provides the power. As yet Akermann has not taken his plane aloft.

The little sinners are the ones who don't reform. They don't sin enough to get tired of it.

TO CITIZENS
FRIENDS: City firemen are pleased with the new wood-working machinery they have received for manufacturing and repairing toys for needy children for Christmas. Donations from Rotarians and funds derived from a campaign being conducted by club members will pay for this new equipment. For many years firemen have won high praise for their work on Christmas toys, and are entitled to this machinery. They invite interested persons to visit their workshop and inspect the new tools and the toys they have rejuvenated. I hope citizens co-operate with Rotarians in the soliciting campaign to raise funds for the tools. Send your old toys to the department as early as possible.

TO AUTO DRIVERS
MOTORISTS: The season of the year is approaching when operation of automobiles is dangerous to yourselves, other drivers, and to your car. Cold weather brings slippery highways, dangerous curves, and poor visibility. If you are accustomed to driving 50 miles an hour in the Spring, Summer and Fall, why not tune that down to 35 miles an hour during the winter? If you maintain a 40-mile an hour speed, why not cut to 30 for the winter season? Such an experiment would be beneficial to you and to all other motorists. While considering speed and "the other fellow", be sure to pay a little attention to your automobile. Be certain that it is properly oiled and greased, and that precautions are taken to prevent the motor from freezing. You will find that a little care at this time will prevent a lot of loss to life and property later.

FARMERS: Pickaway countians would be wise if they followed the advice of Sheriff Charles Radcliff in obtaining descriptions and license tag numbers of suspicious persons and cars in their neighborhoods. Recently a resident was robbed by gypsies. When officers investigated they were unable to obtain descriptions of the gypsies, their auto, or even the license number on the car. Frequently the sheriff's department receives reports of thefts, learn a car was seen parked along the highway, but no description was obtained by the farmer. These descriptions are a means of apprehending the guilty persons. If you see a suspicious person around your farm or notice a car parked along a highway near your home or chicken house make a note of it. You may later discover some of your possessions missing and the information you obtained will be valuable to officers in their investigation.

CITIZENS: With the cooperation of residents and business men Circleville will have its finest observance of the holiday season in many years. City boosters have arranged a Santa Claus parade for the kiddies, a home and store decoration contest, a public drawing for prizes and a community Christmas tree. Only one solicitation will be required of business men to carry out the entire program. Merchants will be asked to contribute either cash or merchandise prizes. Industrial firms, utilities and other organizations will be asked to contribute toward the $300 fund needed for the program features. Nothing adds more to the holiday spirit than an attractively decorated city. I hope every resident and merchant adds some attractive Christmas decoration to the exterior of his home or store this year.

TO MOTORISTS
DRIVERS: Circleville's two-hour parking regulation in the downtown district will be enforced Monday by the police department under orders from Safety Director Charles Caskey. Officials have given motorists ample warning of the enforcement order. All streets and alleys in the downtown area are well posted. It will be difficult for drivers to find an excuse for violating the regulations. Mayor W. J. Graham has assured officers those arrested will be given the proper punishment. The regulations were established by council to better driving conditions in the business area and it is the duty of motorists to co-operate in every way with the police department and city officials in enforcing the new order.

FOLK: The Red Cross roll call ended Thursday and another worthwhile program, the Christmas Seal sale, sponsored to stamp out tuberculosis and improve the health of our school children, opened. Last year the proceeds of the sale of seals in Circleville and Pickaway county paid for four chest x-rays, 29 pairs of glasses and 15 tonsil and adenoid operations. No resident, whether he has many dollars or only a few pennies to spare, should fail to do his part in either of these splendid programs. I hope the seals will be received in the true Christmas spirit as through them an emergency fund is provided in Pickaway county to take care of the fight against tuberculosis. Help keep school children tested and free from this dreaded disease, which takes its greatest toll of lives between the ages of 15 and 45.

World At A Glance —By— Charles P. Stewart

WASHINGTON, D. C.—As I have had occasion to remark heretofore, it is amazing how speedily American business reconciled itself to the last national election result. It is not merely glumly acquiescent; it seems gratified. Almost hilarious. Yet it appeared to be fighting the New Deal's continuation in power to the very last minute.
BIG BUSINESS SHOUTS
It might be argued that big business did the pre-election fighting; that little business was pro-New Deal all the time; that big business, hopelessly licked, has subsided into silence because there is nothing better for it to do; and that little business is doing all the post-election shouting. But that is not the case. It is big business which is as vociferous in its rejoicing now as it was pessimistic in its outcries before election day. One way or the other, it is more vocal than little business, for it has high-powered spokesmen; they are doing today's enthusiastic yelling, just as they did the opposite kind of yelling up to about midnight, Nov. 3, when they realized that their side had been swamped at the polls.
PREACHING NEW DEAL
The rapidity of their flop was what was so astonishing. Were they as scared as they pretended to be before election? Or are they less reassured than they pretend to be by the election result? Certainly no one would have contended that the U. S. Chamber of Commerce was otherwise than a very conservative organization before election day. For years it has been so considered. Yet now its president, Harper Sibley, is one of the country's foremost exponents of business co-operation with New Deal's policies—not necessarily "ad lib" but pretty much so. However, the U. S. Chamber was nothing for Toryism, in comparison with the National Association of Manufacturers. For a decade past, whenever, as a newspaperman, I wanted to get the reactionary viewpoint concerning governmental issues, I have consulted the headquarters of the Manufacturers' association in Washington. And today we have the association's president, C. M. Chester, preaching New Dealerism. Sibley and Chester are not the only ones, either.
LIBERALS INCREASING
From talks I have had with U. S. Chamber and National Manufacturers' members I draw the conclusion that both of these bodies have had liberal elements in them for a long time. The liberals apparently have been squelched for years, but increasing in strength gradually. I have consulted a considerable number of members of both organizations on this subject and the conclusion I draw is that new blood slowly is infusing both of them. They are like politicians; the Old Guard is disintegrating; a new Guard is succeeding it, but so gradually that it has been almost imperceptible. But somewhere there had to be a turning point. Was it marked by the last election?
WILL THEY BE CHANGED
If so, four more years may see two very different U. S. Chamber of Commerce and National Manufacturers' associations. The old folk are dying off. What the rising generation will be like, heaven knows. We, of the present generation, will be dead soon anyway. Whadda we care?

The BLOODHOUNDS Bay

READ THIS FIRST:
Jack Reid, who has just witnessed the mysterious murder of Sir Henry Severinge in the chapel of his ancient abbey, is a ne'er-do-well who has lived by his wits since he left an orphanage. In the chapel to steal a valuable jewel cross, Reid could not identify Sir Henry's slayer and could raise no alarm for fear of incriminating himself. Next day Reid, who has been posing as an itinerant painter working at the abbey, Colonel Graham, a neighbor, and Eric Colindale, agent of the estate who is in love with Lady Severinge, trace the missing Sir Henry to the chapel door by means of bloodhounds. The bloodhounds trace Sir Henry's scent to the coffin of his father in the crypt beneath the abbey chapel. Then Colonel Graham, owner of the bloodhounds, announces he will call in Scotland Yard.
(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)
CHAPTER 8
COLONEL GRAHAM smoked furiously while he spoke. "All this has taken us suddenly, and some men can meet emergencies well while others can't. I've found that in campaigning. We've all got to keep steady. It's like this—at least, this is how I figure it out: "There has been murder done, and such a murder as has seldom been planned before. It's a master brain that thought it out, for, remember, if Reid here hadn't thought of employing my hounds, what chance would there have been of finding the body? Let's take the facts—leave theories alone. By some means Sir Henry was induced to leave his room in his pajamas, and without rousing anyone else. He came to this study—a very private room, remember—and remained here for some time. Unfortunately we have all trampled over the floor, so there is very little likelihood of finding traces, but it looks uncommonly as though he was there for some time. Damn! The theorizing now! Anyway, he went down the passage to the chapel—why? We have no idea. Inside that place he met the murderer or murderers, for there may have been more than one, and was either overpowered, or killed, and the body let down into the crypt. Then this master brain devised a stroke of genius. "There is always the difficulty of disposing of a body, and that has caused many men to go to the gallows. The murderer opened a coffin and placed the body of Sir Henry inside." "But wait a moment," Colindale interrupted. "Wasn't there the body of the old baronet inside already? It's a gruesome business." "That may possibly give the detectives a clue, as I believe it is called," the Colonel said thoughtfully. "Whoever did this dastardly crime must have known—and there are few who do know it—that there was no body there." Reid took a quick breath. "No body?" "Old Sir John—Henry's father—had given precise instructions that he was to be cremated, and had actually had a special crematorium constructed behind the chapel, which still exists for all know. In those early days of cremation, when it was considered almost a sacrilege, the ashes were placed in an urn in the coffin and sealed up. "You observe the importance of that. It would have been of little use to dispose of one body and have another on one's hands. Here was a chance of getting rid of the body in such a way that, except for this one chance, it might never have been discovered, for who would have dreamt of looking in such a place? "The important thing now is to give no hint that any discovery has been made. It will be normal to have the police round here, but the murderer may be watching, and if his fears are lulled we may be able to catch him on some slip." "But, surely," Colindale said, "there must be a motive in murder. Here there appears to have been none and pardon my saying so, if what you have sketched out is correct, Sir Henry seems almost to have been an accessory to his death—I mean, he went voluntarily to the chapel." "That's a matter for the police," Colonel Graham rose stiffly and brushed from his knees the cigar ash that had fallen unheeded. "I will get them on the telephone," he said firmly. Colindale went to Lady Severinge, asking Reid to wait for him. "We have found nothing," he

"We have found nothing."
told her. "Nothing! But what were those bloodhounds doing?" she asked nervously. "They found nothing at all. Colonel Graham's hounds sent them away and is now telephoning to the police at Grinford." "It's horrible, Eric, this suspense—not knowing what has happened to him." Eric Colindale came and sat with her at the window that overlooked the lake. "It's horrible enough for us all. I am really almost convinced myself Sir Henry must have met with some accident." "Why not speak plainly, Eric, and say you think he has been murdered?" He remained silent, and saw terror grow in Hilda's still beautiful eyes. "Would you be very sorry?" he asked, searching her face for an answer. "You ought to know," she laughed bitterly. "I have no cause to love him, but he did not worry me. Strange, now that there is a suspicion that he has been murdered, I seem to feel more kindly about him than I have felt for years." "You would—that's like a woman. He'll be a hero before long." "Eric, you have no right to say that, you're all people," he said wearily. "It's going to be a tough time for us, and we have got to stick together." A knock came to the door, and Eric sprang up from the window seat. James entered, tired-looking, and with an expression of pain on his face. "Beg pardon, m'lady," he said, addressing Lady Severinge, "but I have a message from Colonel Graham for you." "What is it, James?" she asked petulantly. "I was to say," James said awkwardly, "that Colonel Graham requested that no one should leave the Abbey until further orders." "Well, of all the darned cheek—" Eric began, but a warning look from Hilda stopped him. "Very well, James. Colonel Graham has gone, I presume?" "Yes, m'lady. He called Scotland Yard on the phone, and the local police." "But this is intolerable! I shall have to go to see about the estate," Colindale cried furiously. "Was there any other message, James?" Hilda asked. James became confused. "Only—I am sorry," he addressed Colindale—"Colonel Graham has locked the front door and taken the key. He also added that he is sending Coats down with the bloodhounds to patrol the edge of the lake in case anyone might attempt to cross." Hilda turned white to the lips. "You may go," James, she said unsteadily, and the butler bowed himself out. She turned to Colindale as soon as the door was shut. "What does this mean, Eric?" "I think the meaning is plain enough," he said with cold intensity of manner. "We are all prisoners here, confined to the house, and—under suspicion of murder." Colonel Graham was a man to whom action was the breath of life. He struck like lightning, and also like that potent force, sometimes struck the wrong people; but there was nothing indecisive in his methods. Having given his orders to Coats and his gamekeeper to keep a close watch on the Abbey and allow none to go out, but any who wished to go in, he instructed his chauffeur to drive straight to Scotland Yard, where he interviewed Sir James Boyle, the chief commissioner. "I want the best man you can provide," he said, after telling his story. "But, my dear Colonel," Boyle replied with a laugh—he knew Graham well, and understood his temperament—"we can't interfere unless the county constabulary request us. It's not done." "Damn it, I know that well enough! I'm not a county magistrate for nothing. That's all nonsense. This is a case where only the very best brains can help us. I'll see the chief constable and square him. It's not a crime where a second-class officer can waste valuable time. Now, whom do you recommend?" Sir James was fat and slow-moving, but he knew that Graham was a man of some influence and not to be slighted; and he could also understand that sooner or later this case would have to come before his department. It bore the stamp of a very carefully calculated plot, and there were not likely to be an easy solution or immediate results. "I think your best man would be Richard Selden. He's young, but he's been trained in the very latest methods, and has passed through the school with distinction." "Then fetch him out and I'll take him back with me." Sir James laughed, and pressed the button on his desk. Selden was indeed young for so important a job. He had a pleasant face and red hair. Only the keen, steady eyes and a fine forehead marked him as a man of intellect and determination. (To Be Continued)

Poems That Live
A HUNDRED YEARS TO COME
Oh, where will be the birds that sing,
A hundred years to come?
The flowers that now in beauty spring,
A hundred years to come?
The rosy lip, the lofty brow,
The heart that beats so gaily now
Oh, where will be love's beaming eye,
Joy's pleasant smile, and sorrow's sigh,
A hundred years to come?
Who'll press for gold this crowded street,
A hundred years to come?
Who'll tread yon church with willing feet,
A hundred years to come?
Pale, trembling age, and fiery youth,
And childhood with its brow of truth,
The rich and poor, on land and sea—
Where will the mighty millions be,
A hundred years to come?
We all within our graves shall sleep,
A hundred years to come;
No living soul for us will weep
A hundred years to come;
But other men our lands shall till,
And others then our streets shall fill,
While other birds shall sing as gay,
As bright the sunshine as today,
A hundred years to come!

told her. "Nothing! But what were those bloodhounds doing?" she asked nervously. "They found nothing at all. Colonel Graham has sent them away, and is now telephoning to the police at Grinfold." "It's horrible, Eric, this suspense—not knowing what has happened to him." Eric Colindale came and sat with her at the window that overlooked the lake. "It's horrible enough for us all. I am really almost convinced myself Sir Henry must have met with some accident." "Why not speak plainly, Eric, and say you think he has been murdered?" He remained silent, and saw terror grow in Hilda's still beautiful eyes. "Would you be very sorry?" he asked, searching her face for an answer. "You ought to know," she laughed bitterly. "I have no cause to love him, but he did not worry me. Strange, now that there is a suspicion that he has been murdered, I seem to feel more kindly about him than I have felt for years." "You would—that's like a woman. He'll be a hero before long." "Eric, you have no right to say that; you of all people." "Don't let's quarrel," he said wearily. "It's going to be a tough time for us, and we have got to stick together." A knock came to the door, and Eric sprang up from the window seat. James entered, tired-looking, and with an expression of pain on his face. "Beg pardon, m'lady," he said, addressing Lady Severing, "but I have a message from Colonel Graham for you." "What is it, James?" she asked petulantly. "I was to say," James said awkwardly, "that Colonel Graham requested that no one should leave the Abbey until further orders." "Well, of all the darned cheek—" Eric began, but a warning look from Hilda stopped him. "Very well, James. Colonel Graham has gone, I presume?" "Yes, m'lady. He called Scotland Yard on the phone, and the local police." "But this is intolerable! I shall have to go to see about the estate," Colindale cried furiously. "Was there any other message, James?" Hilda asked. James became confused. "Only—I am sorry—he addressed Colindale—"Colonel Graham has locked the front door and taken the key. He also added that he is

Poems That Live

A HUNDRED YEARS TO COME

Oh, where will be the birds that sing,
A hundred years to come?
The flowers that now in beauty spring,
A hundred years to come?
The rosy lip, the lofty brow,
The heart that beats so gaily now
Oh, where will be love's beaming eye,
Joy's pleasant smile, and sorrow's sigh,
A hundred years to come?

Who'll press for gold this crowded street,
A hundred years to come?
Who'll tread our church with willing feet,
A hundred years to come?
Pale, trembling age, and fiery youth,
And childhood with its brow of truth,
The rich and poor, on land and sea—
Where will the mighty millions be,
A hundred years to come?

We all within our graves shall sleep,
A hundred years to come;
No living soul for us will weep
A hundred years to come;
But other men our lands shall till,
And others then our streets shall fill,
While other birds shall sing as gay,
As bright the sunshine as today,
A hundred years to come!

World At A Glance

WASHINGTON, D. C.—As I have had occasion to remark heretofore, it is amazing how speedily American business reconciled itself to the last national election result. It is not merely glumly acquiescent; it seems gratified. Almost hilarious.

Yet it appeared to be fighting the New Deal's continuation in power to the very last minute.

BIG BUSINESS SHOUTS

It might be argued that big business did the pre-election fighting; that little business was pro-New Deal all the time; that big business, hopelessly licked, has subsided into silence because there is nothing better for it to do; and that little business is doing all the post-election shouting.

But that is not the case. It is big business which is as vociferous in its rejoicing now as it was pessimistic in its outcries before election day. One way or the other, it is more vocal than little business, for it has high-powered spokesmen; they are doing today's enthusiastic yelling, just as they did the opposite kind of yelling up to about midnight, Nov. 3, when they realized that their side had been swamped at the polls.

PREACHING NEW DEAL

The rapidity of their flop was what was so astonishing.

Were they as scared as they pretended to be before election? Or are they less reassured than they pretend to be by the election result?

Certainly no one would have contended that the U. S. Chamber of Commerce was otherwise than a very conservative organization before election day. For years it has been so considered. Yet now its president, Harper Sibley, is one of the country's foremost exponents of business co-operation with New Deal's policies—not necessarily "ad lib" but pretty much so.

However, the U. S. Chamber was nothing for Toryism, in comparison with the National Association of Manufacturers. For a decade past, whenever, as a newspaperman, I wanted to get the reactionary viewpoint concerning governmental issues, I have consulted the headquarters of the Manufacturers' association in Washington.

LIBERALS INCREASING

From talks I have had with U. S. Chamber and National Manufacturers' members I draw the conclusion that both of these bodies have had liberal elements in them for a long time.

The liberals apparently have been squelched for years, but increasing in strength gradually.

I have consulted a considerable number of members of both organizations on this subject and the conclusion I draw is that new blood slowly is infusing both of them.

They are like politicians; the Old Guard is disintegrating; a new Guard is succeeding it, but so gradually that it has been almost imperceptible.

But somewhere there had to be a turning point.

Was it marked by the last election?

WILL THEY BE CHANGED

If so, four more years may see two very different U. S. Chamber of Commerce and National Manufacturers' associations.

The old folk are dying off.

What the rising generation will be like, heaven knows.

We, of the present generation, will be dead soon anyway. Whadda we care?

Mr., Mrs. C. E. Weaver Observe Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton E. Weaver, assisted by their five daughters, Alice, Anna, Harriet, Mabel and Elizabeth, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Nov. 25 at their home in Walnut township.

6-TEAM LEAGUE SOUGHT

Xenia Central Considered
At Conference

Possibility that Circleville high school will be asked to join the new South Central Ohio Athletic League, although it now belongs to the Central Buckeye, was seen today as a result of a meeting of heads of schools in the league this week.

F. R. Harris, Greenfield school executive known to many Circleville residents, has been delegated to interview Circleville school officials to learn their feeling concerning the league.

It now includes Washington C. H., Greenfield, Hillsboro and Wilmington.

If Circleville joins, it is believed London, former member of the Teumessah loop, will enter, too. Amos Smith, Wilmington coach, has been appointed to confer with Jacob Von Kanel, London coach.

A suggestion that Chillicothe and Xenia Central be asked to enter the loop was overruled with Harris of Greenfield arguing against admission of the Ross county team, declaring his school will withdraw if Chillicothe is given a place.

Possible admission of Xenia Central would come to a vote of the league because Wilmington is in favor of its entry. Xenia now is in the Miami Valley loop. Its coach is Tommy Blackburn.

Averell Daniell
Pittsburgh

YOU HEAR plenty about the Fordham line. Well, Pittsburgh has a great line, too, as attested by their good defensive record. Probably the outstanding man on the Pitt line is Averell Daniell, a pretty-sounding name, but one tough hombre.

Daniell, a senior, has forged to the front in one season as a great tackle. Injured early last year, when he started as regular tackle, Daniell played only in relief roles. But this year there was no stopping him. He's been hammered and socked, but he came through, game after game, with great performances. Coach Dana Bible of Nebraska called him one of the finest tackles he ever saw.

The Pittsburgh tackle is from Mt. Lebanon, Pa., weighs 200 pounds, is stall and rangy, and has won two letters. He closed his career in the Carnegie Tech game on Thanksgiving.

The Green Bay Packers were sole occupants of first place in the western division of the National Football league today after the champion Detroit Lions dropped the Chicago Bears, 13 to 7.

LARGEST CROWD
IN EAST TO SEE
ARMY AND NAVY

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 27. — (UP)—The largest crowd ever to see an eastern football game was assembling here today for the annual grid extravaganza between Army and Navy.

Tickets for this traditional battle have been sold out for two weeks. Scalpers have reaped such a rich reward that "G-Men" are investigating how they were able to get choice seats assigned to high government officials in Washington.

ROSS FAVORED
TO KEEP TITLE
IN JANNAZZO GO

NEW YORK, Nov. 27. — (UP)—Barney Ross of Chicago is a 4-1 favorite to retain his world welterweight championship against Izzy Jannazzo, of Birmingham, tonight in their 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden.

Despite the long odds, many boxing experts believe Ross will find stiffer opposition than anticipated in Jannazzo.

Ross will be risking his 147-pound title for the first time since he recaptured it from Jimmy McLarnin 16 months ago. More than 10,000 fans are expected to attend.

CO - CHAMPIONS
PREVAIL AGAIN
IN OHIO LEAGUE

COLUMBUS, Nov. 27. — (UP)—For the third time in the Buckeye conference's 12 year history co-champions today ruled its football domain.

The battle for the conference's grid crown ended in a deadlock between Ohio university, the 1935 ruler, and Miami. Miami lost a chance to gain undisputed possession of the Buckeye flag when it was held to a scoreless tie by an underdog, University of Cincinnati team yesterday.

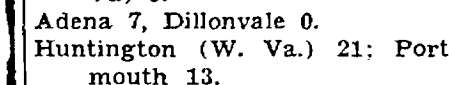

HUSKIES NAMED
AS COAST TEAM
FOR ROSE BOWL

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 27. — (UP)—The University of Washington football team, which yesterday won the Pasadena Rose Bowl assignment, today awaited official announcement of the honor while fans speculated on the likely eastern opponent. The conclusion was that the bid would go to Alabama.

The Huskies, beaten once and tied once, completed their entrance examinations for the Bowl game by trouncing Washington State College.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA
"Seldom does one have an opportunity to correct a great error in one's life. I have that chance and I came to Hollywood to do it." Thus, Edna Ferber, America's outstanding woman novelist, explained why she had agreed to come to Hollywood to assist in and supervise the writing of Samuel Goldwyn's screen version of her greatest novel, "Come and Get It!" which brings Edward Arnold, Joel McCrea and Frances Farmer to the Cliftona Theatre Sunday.

Cancelled Sailing
"In fact I virtually had one foot on board the Berengaria for a trip abroad when Mr. Goldwyn telephoned me. Overnight I cancelled my sailing and left the very next day for Hollywood."

"Never before this time have I been interested in writing for the screen. I have stuck to what I know best, and have written only what I like to write."

"When my books 'Show Boat' and 'So Big' were made into motion pictures, I had little to say about the revision. They were as good books as I could make them, and I felt I would have to be screened as they were."

How About Reserve?

The Rose Bowl chances were kicked into a cocked hat Thanksgiving day when New York University's Violets, defeated by Ohio State 0 to 60 in the first game of the year, caged a 7-6 victory. Fordham was almost counted out after its tie with Georgia, but the N. Y. U. stunner completes the work. Alabama will probably go, but was able to defeat Vanderbilt by only a 14-6 score. Our nomination is Western Reserve, if records are to be considered—Bing Bill Edwards' boys are plenty sweet, and, although they wouldn't have a chance to beat Washington, they would be the team with the best record in the east.

Scioto vs. Ashville

A basketball game deserving plenty of space will be that next Friday evening at Commercial Point when the Scioto township cagers entertain Ashville. An Ashville victory would almost assure the school of a perfect record in its league competition. However, Smoky Williams, Billy Beavers, K. Rodgers, Earl Wilson and a few other Scioto boys believe they can put the bee on the Kauber-men. The Ashville mentor scouted Scioto at Salt Creek Wednesday evening, so you see, he is interested in the style of play of the Scioto quintet.

Layden Wide Awake

Coach Bernie Bierman doesn't fool . . . his Gophers are on Notre Dame's schedule for next fall, so he's going to scout the Irish when they meet Southern California, Dec. 5 . . . It is very hard to catch Elmer Layden napping, however . . . in every game this year the Notre Dame mentor has sprung something new on the enemy . . . that trick in the Army game of having his No. 4 backs raise the ball over their heads before every smash or end run (as if to pass) gave the soldiers cold sweats . . . it's an old Pop Warner trick.

Washington Defeated

Odd thing about that Rose Bowl business . . . the Coast choice is Washington, a team tied by Stanford and beaten by Minnesota . . . but the team from the east must have an unsullied record . . . yes, the coast has an unbeaten team, the Santa Clara Broncos, but it's customary to pick for the Bowl the Coast conference champion, even though beaten interconferentially during the regular season . . . Dana Bible, Nebraska coach, rates Pitt's tackles, Daniell and Matisel, above any others he has seen this year . . . among others he saw Minnesota's.

A deer shot a man the other day and now we're waiting to hear of a fish catchin' one . . . among other incidents of the deer hunting season, a St. Lawrence ferry at Odensburg, N. Y., hit a seven-pointer . . . and the skipper, Matt Farrell, donated the meat to a hospital . . . a Binghamton, N. Y., gal knocked one off with an automobile . . . one of these days a bona fide hunter is going to shoot a deer . . . that will be news.

AT THE CIRCLE

George Arliss dons a turban for the first time since "The Green Goddess" and comes to the Circle Theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday as a Sultan in "East Meets West," a thrilling story of romance and political intrigue.

The tropical country of Rungay is the glamorous and colorful background for this story of the struggle between England and an Eastern power to obtain treaty rights in the harbor of Rungay.

This port is ruled by a crafty and suave Rajah who sees a way to make both countries pay for his signature on the dotted line, and in such a way that they will have no alternative except to keep the peace.

ASHVILLE

William Newton has returned to his home in Ashville after spending the summer at Old Orchard, Maine, and the last several weeks with his sister, Mrs. Hoff and family of Jersey City, New Jersey.

John Swoyer of Los Angeles, California, has returned to his home in Ashville to visit his mother, Mrs. Joanna Swoyer, after an absence of nine years. A Thanksgiving dinner in his honor will be given at the home of his sister, Mrs. Laura Bowers in Ashville.

Miss Anna Hay entertained several friends to a luncheon at her home near Ashville last Friday, honoring Miss Mary Louise Kuhn on her birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hoover had as Sunday dinner guests, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Trego and sons Jerry and Billy of Columbus, Mr. William Woodring and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bowers and daughter Kathryn.

Honoring Mrs. Joseph Hoover on her birthday Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Hoover and sons, John and Bob, Mr. Joseph Hoover, Mr. and Mrs. William Hoover, Mr. William Woodring were Tuesday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Boesiger and family of Circleville township.

CIRCLEVILLE MAY BE ASKED TO JOIN NEW SOUTHCENTRAL ATHLETIC LOOP

HEAD OF SCHOOL AT GREENFIELD TO VISIT CITY

London To Be Sought, Too, For Berth, Harris Puts Veto On Chillicothe

6-TEAM LEAGUE SOUGHT

Xenia Central Considered At Conference

Possibility that Circleville high school will be asked to join the new South Central Ohio Athletic League, although it now belongs to the Central Buckeye, was seen today as a result of a meeting of heads of schools in the league this week.

F. R. Harris, Greenfield school executive known to many Circleville residents, has been delegated to interview Circleville school officials to learn their feeling concerning the league.

It now includes Washington C. H., Greenfield, Hillsboro and Wilmington.

If Circleville joins, it is believed London, former member of the Tecumseh loop, will enter, too. Amos Smith, Wilmington coach, has been appointed to confer with Jacob Von Kanel, London coach. A suggestion that Chillicothe and Xenia Central be asked to enter the loop was overruled with Harris of Greenfield arguing against admission of the Ross county team, declaring his school will withdraw if Chillicothe is given a place.

Possible admission of Xenia Central would come to a vote of the league because Wilmington is in favor of its entry. Xenia now is in the Miami Valley loop. Its coach is Tommy Blackburn.

All American Roll Call

Averell Daniell Pittsburgh

YOU HEAR plenty about the Fordham line. Well, Pittsburgh has a great line, too, as attested by their good defensive record. Probably the outstanding man on the Pitt line is Averell Daniell, a pretty-sounding name, but one tough hombre.

Daniell, a senior, has forged to the front in one season as a great tackle. Injured early last year, when he started as regular tackle, Daniell played only in relief roles. But this year there was no stopping him. He's been hammered and socked, but he came through, game after game, with great performances. Coach Dana Bible of Nebraska called him one of the finest tackles he ever saw.

The Pittsburgh tackle is from Mt. Lebanon, Pa., weighs 200 pounds, is stall and rangy, and has won two letters. He closed his career in the Carnegie Tech game on Thanksgiving.

LARGEST CROWD IN EAST TO SEE ARMY AND NAVY

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 27.—(UP)—The largest crowd ever to see an eastern football game was assembling here today for the annual grid extravaganza between Army and Navy.

Tickets for this traditional battle have been sold out for two weeks. Scalpers have reaped such a rich reward that "G-Men" are investigating how they were able to get choice seats assigned to high government officials in Washington.

ROSS FAVORED TO KEEP TITLE IN JANNAZZO GO

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—(UP)—Barney Ross of Chicago is a 4-1 favorite to retain his world welterweight championship against Izzy Jannazzo, of Birmingham, tonight in their 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden.

Despite the long odds, many boxing experts believe Ross will find stiffer opposition than anticipated in Jannazzo.

Ross will be risking his 147-pound title for the first time since he recaptured it from Jimmy McLarnin 16 months ago. More than 10,000 fans are expected to attend.

CO - CHAMPIONS PREVAIL AGAIN IN OHIO LEAGUE

COLUMBUS, Nov. 27.—(UP)—For the third time in the Buckeye conference's 12 year history co-champions today ruled its football domain.

The battle for the conference's grid crown ended in a deadlock between Ohio university, the 1935 ruler, and Miami. Miami lost a chance to gain undisputed possession of the Buckeye flag when it was held to a scoreless tie by an underdog, University of Cincinnati team yesterday.

HUSKIES NAMED AS COAST TEAM FOR ROSE BOWL

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 27.—(UP)—The University of Washington football team, which yesterday won the Pasadena Rose Bowl assignment, today awaited official announcement of the honor while fans speculated on the likely eastern opponent. The conclusion was that the bid would go to Alabama.

The Huskies, beaten once and tied once, completed their entrance examinations for the Bowl game by trouncing Washington State College.

About This And That In Many Sports

How About Reserve?

The Rose Bowl chances were kicked into a cocked hat Thanksgiving day when New York University's Violets, defeated by Ohio State 0 to 60 in the first game of the year, caged a 7-6 victory—Fordham was almost counted out after its tie with Georgia, but the N. Y. U. stunner completes the work. Alabama will probably go, but was able to defeat Vanderbilt by only a 14-6 score—Our nomination is Western Reserve, if records are to be considered—Big Bill Edwards' boys are plenty sweet, and, although they wouldn't have a chance to beat Washington, they would be the team with the best record in the east.

Scioto vs. Ashville

A basketball game deserving plenty of space will be that next Friday evening at Commercial Point when the Scioto township cagers entertain Ashville. An Ashville victory would almost assure the school of a perfect record in its league competition. However, Smoky Williams, Billy Beavers, K. Rodgers, Earl Wilson and a few other Scioto boys believe they can put the bee on the Kauber-men. The Ashville mentor scouted Scioto at Salt Creek Wednesday evening, so you see, he is interested in the style of play of the Scioto quintet.

Layden Wide Awake

Coach Bernie Bierman doesn't fool... his Gophers are on Notre Dame's schedule for next fall, so he's going to scout the Irish when they meet Southern California, Dec. 5... It is very hard to catch Elmer Layden napping, however... in every game this year the Notre Dame mentor has sprung something new on the enemy... that trick in the Army game of having his No. 4 backs raise the ball over their heads before they smash or end run (as if to pass) gave the soldiers cold sweats... it's an old Pop Warner trick.

Washington Defeated

Odd thing about that Rose Bowl business... the Coast choice is Washington, a team tied by Stanford and beaten by Minnesota... but the team from the east must have an unsullied record... yes, the coast has an unbeaten team, the Santa Clara Broncos, but it's customary to pick for the Bowl the Coast conference champion, even though beaten intersectionally during the regular season... Dana Bible, Nebraska coach, rates Pitt's tackles, Daniell and Matis, above any others he has seen this year... among others he saw Minnesota's.

A deer shot a man the other day and now we're waiting to hear of a fish catch on one... among other incidents of the deer hunting season, a St. Lawrence ferry at Ogdensburg, N. Y., hit a seven-pointer... and the skipper, Matt Farrell, donated the meat to a hospital... a Binghamton, N. Y., gal knocked one off with an automobile... one of these days a bona fide hunter is going to shoot a deer... that will be news.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA
"Seldom does one have an opportunity to correct a great error in one's life. I have that chance and I came to Hollywood to do it." Thus, Edna Ferber, America's outstanding woman novelist, explained why she had agreed to come to Hollywood to assist in and supervise the writing of Samuel Goldwyn's screen version of her greatest novel, "Come and Get It!" which brings Edward Arnold, Joel McCrea and Frances Farmer to the Cliftona Theatre Sunday.

Cancelled Sailing
"In fact I virtually had one foot on board the Berengaria for a trip abroad when Mr. Goldwyn telephoned me. Overnight I cancelled my sailing and left the very next day for Hollywood."

"Never before this time have I been interested in writing for the screen. I have stuck to what I knew best, and have written only what I like to write."

"When my books 'Show Boat' and 'So Big' were made into motion pictures, I had little to say about the revision. They were as good books as I could make them, and I felt I would have to be screened as they were."

AT THE GRAND
"The Three Mesquites," starring Bob Livingston, Ray Corrigan and Syd Saylor, is the picture of the week.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

VERY BOLD TACTICS

A HIGH contract, combined with a bad break of an important suit, often requires a declarer to use bold tactics, as his best chance of making his bid. Certainly that was the case with North. He had to burn all his bridges behind him, knowing that failure meant a considerable penalty, as his side was vulnerable.

Bidding went: West, 1-Spade, second hand; North, 3-Clubs, only intended as a strong invitation for partner to respond, if reasonably possible, as he had once passed; South, 3-Hearts; North, 4-Diamonds, which West raised to 5-Diamonds, and West doubled on a chance to defeat.

Of course the opening lead was the 3 of spades. While North did not believe that it would do any good, he played the K, on the hope that East might have the Ace. When West covered with the Ace, declarer trumped. Doubtless North wished that clubs were trumps, with nine between the two hands, instead of diamonds, with only eight trumps total. The K of diamonds was led, followed by the 9, which dummy's J overtook, in order to lead the Q of clubs through West's hand. West's K covered, and the Ace won the trick, leaving only the 10 and 5 unplaced. Declarer had to lead his Ace of diamonds. To gain entry to dummy's 8 of hearts was led. Dummy's Ace won. Dummy's last trump was led. Declarer had left only six clubs to the J-9. He led dummy's last club. West played the missing 5, but where was the 10 of the suit? Should declarer go for the drop, by putting up his J, or should he finesse the 9, hoping to find East void of the suit. Fortunately, declarer guessed right, by putting up his J and capturing the 10 at his left, giving him a grand slam. Had he guessed wrong he would have been penalized 800 points.

Hearts are trumps. The opening lead is the J of hearts. Before to-declarer trumped. Doubtless North wished that clubs were trumps, with nine between the two hands,

THOUSANDS LINE RIO STREETS AS SHIP IS DOCKED

President Vargas Of Brazil Heads Welcoming Group; Children In Crowd

Indianapolis moved down Guanabara bay to her mooring place.

A 21-gun presidential salute was fired from Ilha Das Cobras, fortified tiny Island in the harbor, as the Indianapolis moved down the dock. Salutes followed from the warships Sao Paulo and Minas Geraes.

School Children Wave

Thousands packed along the dock and square facing the harbor roared a continuous thunder of welcome. School children waved red, white and blue flags. A band played the Star Spangled Banner. Bugles responded on the Indianapolis. Sailors stood at salute. The Indianapolis band then played the Brazilian national anthem.

The school children sang the United States anthem in English. Cannons boomed in the various salutes. The airplanes sped over the scene, zooming in a thrilling display of aviation skill and Latin recklessness which typified the welcome.

U. S. Ambassador Hugh Gibson and Capt. H. K. Hewitt took the salute of the Brazilians standing on the bridge of the Indianapolis. President Vargas warmly grasped President Roosevelt's hand as he stepped down the gangplank, welcoming him to South America for all Americans, north and south. The crowd rent the air with cheers as the two presidents met.

President Vargas escorted President Roosevelt to the waiting motor car and the two American chief executives—south and north—began their parade down the Avenida Rio Branco. The dull grey clouds threatened rain. The throng was enthusiastic, nevertheless.

Troops and police cordons lined the densely packed thoroughfare. The cheering was continuous in the excited crowd, in festive mood. President Roosevelt was plainly moved by the welcome. He waved to the Americans of Brazil almost continuously as he and President Vargas, sitting side by side, motored down the broad highway.

The rain resumed a soupy drizzle as the parade got under way—a warm tropical shower.

ASIATICS JOIN BRITISH ARMY AT SINGAPORE

SINGAPORE (UP)—Increased use is likely to be made in future of Asiatics in the defense scheme at Singapore, the pivot of British strategy in the Far East.

Chinese and Malayan companies of the Volunteer Force, which is organized on Territorial lines, are being given increased responsibility for coastal defense and are being trained in anti-aircraft and beach defense work. Malays in the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve are trained in H.M.S. Laburnum, which is permanently stationed in Singapore. They co-operated with regular naval units in recent maneuvers.

Several hundred Chinese and Malays have applied for enrollment in the new auxiliary air force which will co-operate with the army. Then Britons have been given commissions and while the training of Asiatic pilots has been under consideration, it is expected that recruiting for aircraftmen and ground staff only will be permitted. Eurasians, descended from British, Portuguese and Dutch stock, are asking for the formation of an Eurasian regiment. Eurasians make good soldiers, and many served with distinction in the World War.
